

Crank Sturgeon is a theatrical troupe whose name is derived from a fictional character that appeared in the novels of the late Max Sanderson (Prof. Emeritus, South Harpswell Institute of Technology) (d. 1992). Featuring an ever-changing cast, the group is dedicated to performing the mundane tasks of this dramatis personae through the use of karaoke, thrift store appliances, and no-budget media.